I just updated to zIrc 2.1rc and I'm so happy about this update that I'm going to give this a big review, I'm using zIrc now for 2 years and I think it's my new Home (home = my favorite software program) and if you are using zirc you know what I'm talking about first of all the documentation in the repository is really bad, there are some useful pages but most of them are about generic topics, and there are many questions about configuration in zirc forum. second of all I have some problems with configuration, zIrc Documentation says that in order to use and configure channels I need to use the netcat. but I haven't found the place where they have downloaded the netcat to my filesystem, (at least not on Mac OS X in my situation), so I have to create a symbolic link to /usr/local/bin/netcat for example in /usr/local/bin/ or I need to download the netcat from NetBSD repo and put it in /usr/local/bin/? and this is something else, zIrc has got a lot of "shortcuts", I mean commands but I don't understand where they are used and they are not documented on the zirc website. I'm looking for a way to redirect my default IRC client to zirc, I
