This Windows application is capable of unlocking the password-protected Microsoft Word documents of any version from 5.0 onwards. It has multiple input/output modes, as well as a fast, effective, and reliable decrypting capability. The application can be used to decrypt files that were encrypted using Microsoft Word's built-in AES Encryption. The application recovers the decrypted content from the source file directory of the original document, which is stored in the temporary directory specified by the user. The application provides compatibility with Microsoft Office (2002, 2003, 2007, and 2010 versions) on both PC and Mac platforms. The application can be used on Windows Vista, Windows 7, Windows 8, Windows 8.1, Windows 10, Windows XP, Windows Server 2003, and Windows Server 2008. The input/output modes provide batch processing capability. Users can add new files from their local machine to the main list view, and the application can retrieve and decrypt files from the MS Word file cache directory. The application interface is built with a common Microsoft Windows Explorer-like layout, making it possible for users to preview files and remove added files. Users can use the main list view and add/remove files, as well as preview the content of the added files. The application provides information about the size, page number, and encrypted/decrypted status of the added files. The application supports a comprehensive setting wizard that allows users to configure the application settings, including the destination folder for the decrypted files and the decryption process's security level. The application provides an information pop-up at the end of the decryption process that informs users if the process has been successfully completed, and notifies users that the decrypted content has been saved to the destination folder. The application also provides full support for the following encryption methods: Using Microsoft Word's built-in AES Encryption. Using Microsoft Word's built-in deprecated CBC-RSA Encryption. Using Microsoft Word's deprecated Rle-AES Encryption. Using Microsoft Word's built-in RC2-AES Encryption. Using Microsoft Word's built-in 3DES-AES Encryption. Losing access to password-protected documents can be detrimental, regardless of the content, importance, or sensitivity of the data in those documents.
