"The reason I chose to do this project is I wanted something that would really stand out but I didn't want to do a large statue like a David we would see in a shopping centre. "What's great about this is it's a man who represents the whole mining industry and it's very symbolic that he's a miner. "For mine workers and people who live in the area this project is of vital importance." Read More The theme for next year's Jameel event is "Graces of Faith" and Journeaux wants to add a visual representation to the theme, which is based on the phrase "graces of faith". To help with the project Journeaux has applied for grants of £500, which will be matched by Big Coat. Work on the tribute will begin next summer and is due to be completed
