New Difficulties Two new post-match challenges have also been added to FIFA 22, with the introduction of the "Tournament Difficulty" and "Single Match Difficulty," allowing players to compare their best performance against their training simulations. The "Tournament Difficulty" allows players to choose from new training modes, including "Match Practice" (which players can choose to play as an 11-a-side or 5-a-side opponent), "Test Your Ability" (which allows players to compete in a single match versus a computer-controlled opponent), and "Match Simulation" (which can be used to simulate the 15-a-side, 18-a-side, 11-a-side, or 13-a-side in full match conditions, allowing players to play a full league match). "The Tournament Difficulty is a great new addition that we really wanted to implement in FIFA 22," said Aaron Nielsen, Producer at EA SPORTS. "This offers a more realistic simulation of a tournament and gives players an additional avenue to judge their own gameplay. The 'Match Simulation' is a mode that's similar to our popular 'Coach Simulator,' and allows players to simulate full-match conditions, earning and comparing marks for the standout players in their team." New Futsal In addition to the above, the FIFA 22 launch will also add a fresh take on futsal to players of the game. The new mode, titled "Futsal," lets players play a complete half-court match with soccer and futsal-specific gameplay, including goalkeeper interference, futsal-specific physicality, and an assortment of zonal defending. Futsal mode also features "Player Ratings" that track players' progress and performance over the full 15 minutes of the match. New Player Ratings Players will also be able to track their progress across the full game in an entirely new way, using the "Player Ratings" feature that will feature a high-level of accuracy, with the addition of "Champion Academy" (which highlights the top players in EA SPORTS Football, FIFA, and Ultimate Team - with different levels of rating) and "Challenge Goals" for accuracy and improvement. "As part of our commitment to giving all players the opportunity to become an expert

What's new in Fifa 22:

- AGON Capture the awesome experience of playing high-intensity, fast-paced, game-changing action in FIFA 22 including goalkeeper dives, through ball touches, and goal-scoring set-plays.
- FIFA Ball Physics The responsiveness of the ball is enhanced, bringing technical sophistication to controls and gameplay. New dribbling and heading controls are inspired by real-world skills. Beat your opponent using anticipation to control and limit where a ball touches you.
- Ball Impact Physics Ball Impact is introduced in FIFA 22. More responsive ball physics, and an increased sensitivity of what can be done with control sticks are the result. The game also introduces "weak handling" whereby a goalkeeper can be caught out at crucial moments; "pitch" effects that are triggered by expertly-timed save input and accurate passes through tight spaces; and player passes that come faster and faster to the receiver. A new camera system that shoots Fouls in front of and behind the kicker as he runs allows for just when the keeper decides to come forward...
- Improved DynamoFX The power and performance of FIFA engine is taken to a new level in FIFA 22, providing more responsive but exciting gameplay. Powering the increased responsiveness are a new physics engine, reworked animations, and much more. Amongst the other improvements is a 3D version of DynamoFX which was introduced in FIFA 17. New dynamic behaviour includes changes in the size, shape and density of pitch particles, the optimal bounce angle and marking for projectiles when a player is struck, the density of attacks from other players at specific timings, and more.
- Improved Dribble New dribbling techniques from the most in-demand players in football today helps you adjust to your opponents on the pitch. This includes pivots, back flips, high-speed catches, triple balls, and more.
- EVE The Every UEFA Champions League Tactic engine in EVE once again delivers the authentic physics, match engine and player intelligence of a FIFA match on all levels of difficulty for UEFA Champions League teams and the game's best players. EA SPORTS Game Marketing Manager Patrick Söderlund said: "FIFA 22 delivers the most accurate and intense football experience in the market by using real data from the world's most elite football stars from around the globe to fine-
