Aligning objects The display of an image in Photoshop can be a bit disorganized. It takes up a lot of real estate on the screen, and objects may be skewed or even sitting in the wrong place on the canvas. If you create an image that includes several objects (such as text, a picture, or even a photo), you may need to do some editing in order to achieve the proper positioning. But set a short time goal for yourself - say, at the end of the day or whatever, then take it up again, ideally it'll do well enough for you to want to find more stuff to work on so you can keep your momentum - you can find a schedule for yourself that gets you working on the thing you want to do. Startup attitude... make goals and take steps to keep moving, don't hang out on a treadmill.

but I get over it quickly. I wonder if I am just waiting to find someone to work with. It seems like I can make serious progress if I put my mind to it. But when something else comes up, I give up. I guess it could be a motivation problem. ----- kc10 This has happened to me too. I just get tired of it and somehow just get back to work with no clear goal. I think of myself as a very busy person when I am working.. but when I am not working I can literally spend the whole day in front of the pc or laptop. ----- bullism1 When you notice you can't even complete a simple task. ----- duncan_bayne When you stop being productive. ----- jeffmould When you try. ----- notastartup when you find time Send this to a friend New Orleans police said the gunman's motive was not immediately clear.
