Included is "Improved Digitally Analysed Motion", which matches player's movements with animations to help you feel more connected to players. And "Passing Intelligence", which highlights opposing team's weak areas in the build-up to a pass. Features: Live Player Motion Capture Technology Collect all real-life player motion data (tackles, headers, crosses, shots, and more) and combine that with gameplay - it's now completely integrated into FIFA gameplay. Real-life player data will be recorded even if you use your own player model, and you'll get robust, detailed, and authentic motion capture. Improved Digitally Analysed Motion Incorporate real-life player data with gameplay to bring you an enhanced realism level - players move and behave with even more nuance and authenticity through their skilled actions. In-game actions will match real-life player movements, and more detail will also make the game more immersive. Team Specifics Warm-up routines Players who play with skill will be more difficult to catch and more difficult to dispossess. The more you train the better they'll play, creating more space, more time, more room. Team Formation During the game it will change based on the playing style: three forwards and three back usually, but it can be four-two-two or even four-three-two. The formation will change based on the opponents you're playing against. Player Development New features! Track players between youth and professional level, with the option to swap to a professional player. The player you choose will be dynamically altered for each game in your career. Developing players will have more movement options, increased balance, and more accurate and flexible controls. Realistic Control Features real-world balancing from top to bottom. Players will be better, stronger, and more athletic. And your key-presses and touches will affect your opponents as in real life. Real Team Chemistry Teams will now look more cohesive - shots will connect better, and players will move in waves like they do in real life. Also, teams will work on the pitch using the pre-game team routines, ensuring a more fluid approach to tactics and team organisation. Player Intelligence Teams will now distribute players within the system like they do in real life. You won't get stuck in
