Q: Converting List Boxes to Tables in Excel I am a complete beginner and need help. I have a macro that creates a table of output (from the database) and then finds the largest number in the column, then maps out the way by which it has decreased. My problem is that the output needs to be a database connection as they go and I can't see a way to load the data into a table and have it only do so as the data comes through. I am using the following code (copied out here):

```
Private Sub button7_Click()
Dim db As ADODB.Connection
Dim rs As ADODB.Recordset
Dim i As Integer
Set db = New ADODB.Connection
db.Open "Provider=Microsoft.ACE.OLEDB.12.0;" & _ "Data Source=c:\database.accdb"
Set rs = New ADODB.Recordset
With Sheets("Quality")
i = 1
While i rs(0).Edit
MsgBox (i(0))
i.MoveNext
Loop

What's New In?

A state senator from Oklahoma proposed to ban names of alcoholic beverages, so when consumers see cans or bottles in the liquor section of their local liquor store, they would know what they are ordering. "They may see the word 'Cranberry' in many of the names of products in the liquor section," Senator Blake Harris, a Republican representing Oklahoma City, said at a Senate commerce, technology and consumer protection committee hearing. "What if a consumer asked the store clerk, 'What does that mean, Cranberry?' Well, you'd have to get your coat because you don't know what the product you are purchasing is," said Harris, who called the bill he introduced, SB 1590, the "Orson Scott Card Alcoholic Beverage Prohibition Act." The bill passed through the Legislature this week, thanks in part to Senator Kelly Hancock, a Tulsa Republican who says she plans to introduce a similar bill in the next session. States have the power to choose what names to use for alcoholic beverages, and since many states prohibit the retail sale of alcohol to anyone under 21 years of age, the name might seem small. But legislators in other states have been debating similar name bans in the past few years. The bill would ban the use of alcoholic beverage names that "convey an illicit connotation" or are "derogatory to a person" or "suggest sexual conduct." Judd got a warm welcome from concerned citizens during the hearing of the Senate committee on commerce, technology and consumer protection. Some said they didn't want to see the names of alcoholic beverages changed. "An alcoholic beverage is an alcoholic beverage," said Christie Gulden, president of the Oklahomans for Sobriety, who called the bill "a censorship bill and "a silly bill." "Liquor is liquor, and you can have a very good vodka that has not been changed to be advertised as being an AK-47. You can't have a peach-flavored vodka," said Gulden, a recovering alcoholic who said she was surprised at the reaction at the committee hearing. Brandy and drunk, wine and lipstick, gin and alcohol, wine and shrimp, vodka and fruit — all are names of alcoholic beverages that might be banned by the legislature, said
