Research: Evolutionary anthropology examines how humans and other organisms are adapted to their living conditions, and examines how behaviour change in response to those conditions - from food gathering to language to government formation - can be tracked in the fossil record. Studying archaeological material in places like the Middle East, Africa, South Asia, New Guinea and Chile, Christina searches for 'human and animal footprints' in their fossil record. A: If I remember correctly, this is because the CA I have gets a little confused by capital letters in passwords, therefore that shouldn't be the case for the one in your account. Try the following steps: Log into your account with your credentials that you use for Windows Live ID (like your email address and password). Click the "Change password" link on the left-hand side of the screen, in the Microsoft Account dialog that appears. You should see a warning that says "The password for your Microsoft Account has changed." Change your password by typing it in. Close the Microsoft Account dialog. Log back into your account. Your password will change to a capitalized version of it, and logging in should work.

Q: How to show only one image form database using Google app engine I want to show only 1 image from one table in Google app engine using libgdx. I have tried getImage but it is showing all of the images from the table. Please help me to find out solution for this. This is the following code:

FileUtils.getFileByRelativePath("shoes/20.png"); file = FileUtils.getFile(200, "res/test.png");
Gdx.files.internal("res/test.png");

I have a table containing following fields
Id,UserName,ImageName,ImageType and when i am showing only one of the image i am fetching the data from database.

A: One solution to this is to create a custom object that can hold all of the info you need for a single image. Something like this (example code):

public class Image { String id; String userName; String imageName; String imageType; // getters and setters }
You then write your ImageEntity to the datastore, something like:
public ImageEntity imageRepo(File file) { ImageEntity image = new ImageEntity(); image.imageName = file.getName(); image.imageType = "PNG";
image.userName = "user"; image.id = "123"; return imageRepo(file); }
