Omsi 2 line 24A is the latest expansion for the mobility simulation OMSI 2. It is available as an add-on to OMSI 2. The BVG is the biggest transport service provider of Vienna. It has daily regular services for people and goods. The "Wiener Linien" (network) brings its services to all parts of the city and forms an excellent basis for a modern simulation. The routes take place on the core route network of Vienna. It is possible to extend the route and take it in different directions. The bus route "24A" that the add-on is built on starts in Wien-Währing and ends in Invalidensiedlung. The add-on is available for free as a download to OMSI 2 and includes the route of Line 24A in different variants and traffic routings as well as the appropriate articulated busses of high-floor and low-floor generations. Features: Early articulated low-floor buses and high-floor articulated buses Special Functions Stores Route Vienna – Line 24A until the year 2005 up to Kagran The add-on includes the classic route of the BVG on Line 24A until the year 2005 up to Kagran. The original routes were designed in the city of Vienna and were heavily influenced by the conditions in the city and what the people needed. Many of the conditions have remained unchanged over the course of time. This is why the route has developed into the connection between the two districts of the 23rd, 24th and 32nd District and the Vienna City Center. "Kagraner Platz" and Invalidensiedlung are the two largest central residential areas in the city of Vienna. They offer an up-to-date, modern and multifunctional infrastructure. The latest extension routes at the start of the "Wiener Linien" on the 24th District run via Stadtberg and Haythornstädt. New Routes since 2006 Since 2006 a new routing of the BVG on line 24A and line 24A has been selected as a result of the target group of the "Wiener Linien" and feedback from commuters. This new route starts in the city center with Währinger-Strasse and runs via Invalidensiedlung to Kagraner Platz and back. One of the advantages of the new routing is the new starting point in the city center. From there the route

Gnomes Garden: Halloween (2022)

In Dinogotchi's world, dinosaurs are still extinct. But fortunately, the magic crystals of a fairy that called Eva have been found. Their power could bring back the prehistoric animals. And you are going to help her. The game is based on the 2D side scrolling rhythm game, Beatmania. Players use the classic white and red drum pads, plus a new red "Hammer" button, to jam out to the song of their choosing. But like Pop'n Music, the game includes a number of different modes of play as well as an online multiplayer mode. The default "Jam Session" mode features two player support, a "Perfect Timing" mode which serves as a practice mode, and a "Music Mode" where players jam out to a customized song with various performance and number of rounds. Players can also play "Hollywood", "King of Pop", "Club", or "Mystery" with single player or with up to four people via the DS's wireless LAN. Players can also create their own songs using the "Song Editor". Songs created by players may also be used as "Shuffle" tracks in the Music Mode. In order to create a song, the player can choose from a number of themes that come pre-loaded. Batch Edit is a Sony PSP game that shares similar gameplay as Cut it up, however the player is able to create their own songs by combining pre-made loops. The sound FX for songs and drum beats may be altered, depending on the player. And by using the touch screen, different effects such as Reverse and Random may be used, based on user input. Features Sound: Three styles of songs can be created by combination of pre-made loops and sounds such as drum-machines and acoustic guitar. Play with up to 4 people using the multiplayer mode, where players can play any song and the user can play any song of his/her favorite songs. The song that is played by the player will be displayed as well as a custom-made music box. What's new in Gnomes Garden: Halloween:

From the Bunch of Apples Do you ever wonder how any fruit tastes good? I'm not just talking about the imitation taste of any food. I'm talking about why some fruit tastes better than others. To me, it's about the total package deal. I'm not talking about how long it takes to get the "good stuff" for this to prove. I'm talking about why the banana is so worthy of your attention. Seriously, why is the banana so much better than the other fruit in the bunch? There's all the "healthy stuff" like fiber, potassium, and other nutrients. That's there. So why does it taste more like something wholesome? You know that feeling you get when you've convinced yourself that you've been eating healthy all day? Well, I couldn't really give a crap about the "healthy stuff" I've been eating for the day. All that matters is this: My taste buds are going on the high of eating something that a raw banana tastes like. There's less hype and more flavor. Like I said, it's about the total package deal. The banana has a really high amount of protein, but it's also a food that's high in B-group amino acids (or both A and B-group amino acids). Another thing you should know, is that banana's (especially unripe ones) are also high in vitamin A. Make your high of the day even better by blending the bananas, banana puree, and milk together with your coffee! The morning after, I went to eat an omelet that had four frozen banana slices in it. It also had cheese, bacon, and some spinach. Hmm. There's something odd about the taste of the cheese as it's sandwiched by the banana slices. I don't usually like blue cheese, but I couldn't help but think to myself: "This tastes like bananas." Does that actually happen to you, too? "Should I try this with the spinach as well?"
