"I understand you, I like who you are but it's hard for me to wrap my mind around a character like that." So Barrett had a lot of time to spend on Storm when he signed on to play the role and, even after filming wrapped up in February, he was still finding his way. "I think I should get the chance to read it but he's going to be hard to win over in season two," Barrett said. "I want to start that early but it's going to be hard and I've learned that over the last six months with Summer.

Summer has a way of being able to connect to people on different levels. That just takes time." For the information sessions, Barrett attended the first one at lunchtime on Tuesday, the second one at 1 p.m. at the Los Angeles Police Department, and then had a full day of filming on Tuesday night at Sunset

Gower Studios. Barrett said meeting Storm was worth the effort to find out about the character and the story. "He's a nice guy and I'm getting to know that Storm has some great skills and wants
