Rating 4.5 stars, based on 204 reviewsQ: How can i make sure the working android emulator and the emulator that I use to install the app are the same? I am a complete beginner of Android app development. Whenever I run my app or check if my app works, I always start with an Android emulator but I never used to test if my app works on my phone. It is very hard to distinguish the two after I installed the app on my phone and it is possible that my phone is not suitable for testing my app. How can I make sure the working Android emulator and the emulator that I use to install the app are the same? A: You can download the device emulator in the SDK manager. Once downloaded, open the device and choose the Virtual Device Manager from the second window that opens on the top. In the third window that opens, choose the AVD of the Android version you want. 6d1f23a050
